Higher Education Administration involves the management and coordination of various programs and services for colleges and universities.

Higher education administrators must be prepared to lead faculty and staff, as well as manage overall operations of a college or university. The Master of Science in Higher Education Administration will provide candidates with the knowledge and skills necessary for this level of leadership in higher education. Candidates learn sound higher education theory, leadership, and strategic management for administrative programs and student services, as well as ways to manage and implement change in dynamic environments.

To coordinate the various programs at colleges and universities, different types of administrators are needed. Well-trained higher education administrators make a significant impact on the lives of the students and communities they serve.
